CARBAJAL PEACE ENVOYS DUE AT MONTEREY TODAY

Washington Officials Believe Parley Will Result in Forming of New Government.

ZAPATA NOT FEARED

Mexico City Has Ample Force to Repulse an Attack by Rebel Leaders.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—With the developments in the Mexican situation apparently taking shape for a peaceful solution, administration officials today looked forward to the outcome of the meeting soon to take place at Monterey between Gen. Carranza and the three commissioners from President Carbajal, Huerta's successor. It was believed they would reach Monterey today or certainly early tomorrow. They were to discuss with the Constitutional leader conditions for the transfer of the Mexico City administration.

Washington officials were confident that parleys soon would result in an agreement for the establishment of a new government. Apprehension over reports that the followers of Zapata, the Southern rebel, were dangerously near the capital, was somewhat relieved by dispatches from Mexico City declaring recent statements of the activities of the Zapatistas were exaggerated. It was declared there was a sufficient force of soldiers and volunteers to repulse Zapata if he should attempt to advance on the capital. Envoys from Carranza now are in touch with the Southern rebel. They seek to turn his sympathy toward the Constitutional cause.

Another demonstration of the attitude assumed by Carbajal in his role of Provisional President was seen in the announcement of a Federal commander above Vera Cruz to the effect that the administration does not recognize the existence of a revolution and considers all Mexicans on an equal basis as citizens. The commander, Lieutenant Colonel Isunza, declared proclamation had been issued in Mexico City granting so-called revolutionists permission to pass through Federal lines if they did not carry arms.

Huerta Smiles at Report Rebels May Attack Mexico City

PUERTO MEXICO, July 20.—Gen. Huerta shrugged his shoulders and smiled contemptuously at the idea that the force of Constitutionalists known to be a thousand men from here would dare to attack this city. The military companions of the former dictator, however, did not display the same degree of confidence and an extended line of outposts was maintained today, which prevented the Constitutionalists from approaching nearer. Gen. Huerta continued to pass most of his time in the railroad car in which he arrived from Mexico City. Since his arrival here he has not taken an hour's exercise. Now that means of getting away from Mexican territory have been arranged there is a marked change in the bearing of all the fugitives. The women and children slept late today in an effort to kill the dreary period of waiting for the arrival of the little steamer which was expected to reach here late today, but it was thought unlikely any of the party would leave before tomorrow.

Huerta and Blanquet to Sail on German Cruiser on Tuesday. PUERTO MEXICO, Mex., July 20.—According to latest reports, former President Huerta and his party expect to leave here Tuesday. Gen. Huerta and Blanquet, accompanied by three or four aides, will sail on the German cruiser Drednaut. The others will go on the steamer Mexico of the Mexican Navigation Co., which, it is said, has been chartered for this purpose. The Huerta guards will leave today for the capital.

30,000 Cartridges Smuggled Daily Into Mexico From U. S.

EL PASO, Tex., July 20.—Twenty thousand cartridges, on an average, are being smuggled daily over the international line at this point, according to military officials here. The United States army patrol is powerless to prevent smuggling, it is said, on account of the existing regulations of the Department. The ammunition has been destined not only to Gen. Villa's Constitutional troops, but to the Federal irregulars. It is not permissible to arrest or even detain smugglers. The War Department regulation, it is said, even forbids the use of firearms against the smugglers, although the ammunition runners for several days past have been bringing ammunition to the border in auto trucks and dumping it across the line.

Gen. Orozco Is Trying to Reach Coast, Report Says

MEXICO CITY, July 20.—No great importance is attached here to the new revolutionary movement which Gen. Pascual Orozco and others are reported to be fomenting. It has been said that Orozco has planned to mobilize his forces around Aguas Calientes and proceed to Queretaro, but the general belief is that he is only attempting to reach a port on the west coast. The Constitutionalists, it is understood, are taking steps to prevent any such movement. It is rumored that Queretaro has been occupied by the Constitutionalists.

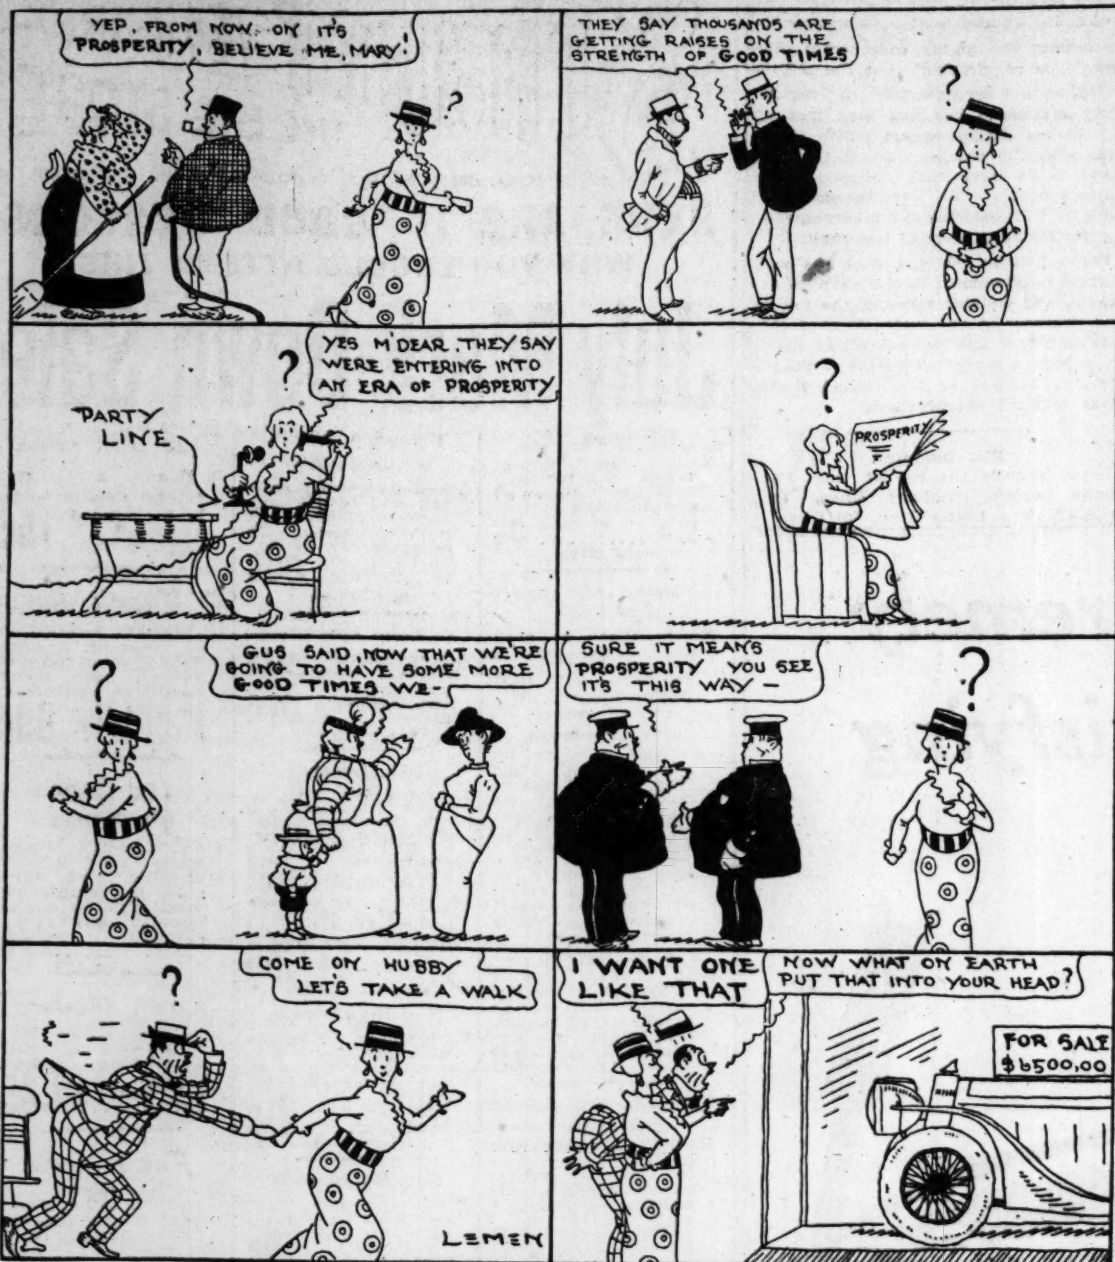

Woman Taken in Liqueur Raid

BIG STEEL ORDERS TAKES PROSPERITY INTO PITTSBURG

Wabash Railroad Gives Contract for 60 Modern Locomotives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 20.—The advance wave of prosperity has arrived in Pittsburgh. A big order, which will give work to several thousand men, has been received at the Pittsburgh shops of the American Locomotive Co. The contract, from the Wabash Railroad, calls for 60 modern locomotives, a big order at any time. The Pig Iron and Steel Co. of Midland has entered into an agreement with the United Engineering and Foundry Co. of Pittsburgh. The agreement brings employment to 3000 to 3500 additional men and the investment of many hundreds of thousands of dollars as capital. The Homestead Steel Works is engaged on two of the largest orders for structural steel ever given in this country at one time. One order is for $5,000,000, the other for $3,000,000. The latter company will use in building the approaches to two big four track railroad bridges over the East River, New York.

A $4,000,000 contract for steel to be used in the new bridge over the St. Lawrence River at Quebec has been awarded to the Wheeling Steel and Tin Plate Co. and the Wheeling Steel and Iron Co.

The stock of the latter company was increased from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000. Part of this money will be utilized for improvements and for extending the plants of the new corporation.

MOTHER BELIEVES PRE-NATAL EFFECT MADE SON SLAYER

Will Tell Jury How She Planned a Murder Before Boy Entered World.

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., July 20.—Transmission from mother to son of a desire to handle deadly weapons and to take human life will be pleaded to save the life of Lawrence Robinson, now facing the death penalty in Boston for murdering Police Inspector Norton, who sought to arrest him for robbery.

Robinson is from this city and today his mother told her secret of 35 years—a story of trust, betrayal and desertion, causing prenatal influence that she thinks has shaped his life of violence and crime. On the witness stand the mother will endeavor to tell of the mental anguish she endured prior to the son's birth without a father's name. She will try to tell how, when her betrayer rejected her plea for protection she determined to slay him; how for weeks she fondled the pistol and planned how to waylay and shoot him from ambush.

Throughout this period of waiting the weapon was with her continuously and she says served to keep alive the desire for vengeance. She will urge that through the mysterious alchemy of nature the longed-for child became a part of his nature. If permitted, she will also tell the jurors how, after the child was born, she ever was praying that he might one day meet and shoot her betrayer, which continued for years until she saw in the growing lad the living embodiment of her long o'ermastered thought. This came after her early hatred had burned itself away and death had claimed the author of his misfortune.

Grand Jury Inquires INTO STRIKE BATTLE

Warrants Charging Murder Prepared in Killing of Two Mine Guards in Arkansas.

GREENWOOD, Ark., July 20.—Warrants charging murder, arson and rioting were prepared here today at the instance of Prosecuting Attorney Little for the arrest of a number of persons who, it is declared, participated in the attack last week on the Prairie Creek Mines of the Baugh-Dennan Coal Co. while the company's miners were on strike.

The Grand Jury called to investigate the disturbance was expected today to listen to the testimony of Samuel C. Thomas, mine guard, who declares he witnessed the killing of two mine guards during the rioting, and other witnesses who saw the Tippees and other buildings of three mines destroyed by fire.

THREE BALLOONS CROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL IN GALE

Aeronauts Leap From Baskets to Avoid Being Blown to Sea Again, One Is Hurt.

LONDON, July 20.—Three of the 24 balloons, which started from Paris yesterday, in the annual race for the grand prize of the French Aero Club, landed today on the Welsh shore. Having crossed the English Channel before a fierce gale, they were obliged to descend in order to avoid being driven out to sea. Spire, one of the pilots, in jumping from the basket of his balloon, fractured a leg and suffered other injuries. Marcel Foucault and Jean Laurenceau, two French aeronauts, managed to jump clear and without injury, but lost their balloon, which blew away to sea. Ernest de Myster and Albert Viemenc, two Belgians, landed safely with the third craft.

Balloons Basket Toss Loose, Falls 150 Feet.

PARIS, July 20.—The basket of the balloon Tote, a contestant in the Grand Prix race of the Aero Club of France, tore loose from the gas bag and fell into the trees of the Tuilleries Garden yesterday, injuring the pilot, Georges Blanchet, and his aide, Duval, and causing a panic among thousands of spectators at the place de la Concorde. Several persons were slightly injured in the crush, many women fainted and others were overcome by escaping gas. The band was playing the Marseillaise as the Tote, one of the 24 balloons, slowly ascended. At a height of 150 feet the cordage surrounding the envelope began to give way. Blanchet and his aide were bowing their heads and paid no attention to warnings shouted by spectators. The ropes broke and the basket fell with the two men clinging to it inside. It dropped into a cluster of trees and bounded to an iron picket fence. Blanchet's injuries were minor, but Duval was injured internally. Blanchet was the winner of the Grand Prix on three previous occasions.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The spirit of revolt among the inmates of State and city penal institutions recently spread last night to the Magdalena Home for Girls at Inwood. Dear Welcomes French President.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 20.—President Poincaré of France was welcomed on his arrival today at Kronstadt with full naval honors by the Emperor of Russia. The President was accompanied by Premier Viviani.

When country air alone is not enough—

When evening after evening he comes home that country life he longed for, only to wake and face the long day's work in a hot office as tired as when he went to bed, many a man has begun to wonder "What can help me?"

And "Sanatogen" is the logical answer. Not only from the 21,000 physicians who have written so enthusiastic letters, but from the multitudes of brain-workers in tropical countries who find in Sanatogen the nourishing help they must have to keep up under the enervating pressure of hot weather.

For after all, health in summer is largely a matter of diet. And Sanatogen, bringing to the nerve cells and tissues—the very foods they must have, and in the purest and most easily assimilable form, restores and revivifies the whole system. And helping other food digest, it lightens the tax upon stomach and nerves.

It is this two-fold effect of increasing and conserving nerve force that makes Sanatogen so helpful in hot weather. And not until you have felt its splendid vitalizing effects will you begin to know how much Sanatogen can help.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere in three sizes, from $1.00 up.

PORTE SOLVES "AMERICA'S" THIRD MOTOR PROBLEM

Engine of 100 Horsepower Will Be Placed Above Upper Plane; Sea Sled Removed.

By Lieut. John Cyril Porte, R. N. Copyright. (All Rights Reserved in the United States and Canada.)

(Lieut. Porte will write exclusively for the Post-Dispatch and New York World the story of his flight across the Atlantic.) HAMMONDSPOUR, N. Y., July 20.—Outwardly yesterday was a day of rest, but all devoted the day to powerful thinking over methods of installing the new 100-horsepower motor in the over-ocean airship America. Finally it was decided to place this above the upper plane, having a ratchet and chain to the cockpit for cranking purposes. The triangle tractor propeller will be enclosed for protection and set forward of the other two motors immediately over the cockpit. The added motor weighs 400 pounds and her fuel 30 gallons, but the ship's lifting power has been increased 1000 pounds.

The sea sled already has been removed, being replaced by fins (as at the first trial), which shape backward, resembling a ship's bilge keels. They are about six feet long. All indications point to getting away to Newfoundland August 1. The machine can be run on any two or all motors and once aloft can be cut out entirely and kept for emergency, thus adding enormously to the element of safety, in that there will be no difficulty in rising from a rough sea, should any descent become necessary.

I have now decided to revert to my original plan and have my main supply in the Azores at Ponta Delgada. Instead of Ponta Delgada, being 120 degrees nearer St. John's, N. F.

THAW CAN ESCAPE WHEN HE WISHES. ESPIONAGE A JOKE

He Was Lost Recently When Trout Fishing and Sat Still Till Found at 2 A. M.

IS A TOTAL ABSTAINER

Conducts Self at New Hampshire Hotel in Way Aimed to Win Him Support.

MOUNT MADISON HOUSE, GORHAM, N. H., July 20.—Harry K. Thaw, who is quartered here with his secretary and two bodyguards, appointed by the court to see he does not escape, can walk out of this hotel, jump into an automobile and flee virtually any time it suits his mood.

Apparently, however, the slayer of Stanford White, whose extradition to New York State and return to the State hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan is sought, has no desire to quit Gorham.

When the village thawed out last May, White's slayer packed his baggage and came here from Concord with Sheriff Holman A. Drew, in whose charge he had been placed; Deputy Sheriff C. D. Stevens, assistant to Drew, and H. J. Rice, who for some time has acted as Thaw's secretary. A suite of four rooms and bath had been engaged for the party on the third floor of the Mount Madison House, and here they have since enjoyed life.

Thaw Lost on Fishing Trip. Gorham was selected as a summer headquarters from which to direct Thaw's "liberty campaign," because it is but a few miles from Berlin, the home of Sheriff Drew. The sheriff is an elderly, stout and good-natured official whose duties do not appear to weigh heavily upon him. He spends much time suits his convenience in the Thaw suite and the other two who please—usually at home.

Bodyguard Stevens is a bit more attentive to his charge, but his care have not whitened his hair. Possibly the only time he has been at all worried was a few days ago, when Thaw got lost on a trout fishing trip. He struck in at one point on Nineteen-Mile Brook and Stevens at another. Along about 9 o'clock in the evening, when nothing had been heard of Thaw, the Deputy Sheriff called up the hotel and a searching party was organized.

This was led by Rice. With the aid of lanterns, Thaw was found about 2 o'clock in the morning, seated on a rock in the middle of stream, calmly and with good sense, waiting for someone to come for him. He was hungry and wet, but not otherwise the worse for his experience.

Thaw a Total Abstemious. Dr. Austin Flint, alienist for New York State, in all the Thaw trials and hearings, and William Travers Jerome, chief of the State's prosecuting officers, say Thaw's great danger lies in alcohol. They have stated to the courts that should the slayer take so much as one drink, especially of champagne, he would likely enough again develop homicidal tendencies.

Thaw hasn't had a drink since he came here, although he has had plenty of opportunities. There is a bar in the hotel. So far as can be ascertained, Thaw never has been in the bar, nor has he had intimations sent to his room. He is now a total abstainer. His one vice, if it can be called a vice, is smoking.

Outside the fact that he doesn't drink and is more moderate in his speech, Thaw doesn't seem to have changed much since the days when he was a well-known character on Broadway. He is still nervous, arrogant, excitable and suspicious. His mandatory nature continually asserts itself, but he can be winsome if he chooses.

It is unquestionably a fact that Thaw is trying his best to conduct himself properly and win support in that way.

Harry Leighton, one of the best-known jewelry salesmen in the city, is now with Hess & Culbertson, Seventh and St. Charles, and will be pleased to welcome his many friends.

Senator Since Has Opposed Wilson Policies; O'Gorman and Hitchcock in Disfavor.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, July 20.—The animus of the opposition to President Wilson and his policies on the part of United States Senators James A. Reed of Missouri, James A. O'Gorman of New York and Gilbert H. Hitchcock of Nebraska has been located. It is:

President Reed's resentment toward the President is because of his victory over Champ Clark in the Baltimore convention. The failure of the President to grant every request made by Senator Reed with regard to the distribution of patronage in Missouri.

PRESIDENT WILL IGNORE REED IN STATE PATRONAGE

Opposition to Jones' Nomination Said to Have Caused Absolute Break.

SELPH NAMED AS FAVOR

Senator Since Has Opposed Wilson Policies; O'Gorman and Hitchcock in Disfavor.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, July 20.—The animus of the opposition to President Wilson and his policies on the part of United States Senators James A. Reed of Missouri, James A. O'Gorman of New York and Gilbert H. Hitchcock of Nebraska has been located. It is:

President Reed's resentment toward the President is because of his victory over Champ Clark in the Baltimore convention. The failure of the President to grant every request made by Senator Reed with regard to the distribution of patronage in Missouri.

Senator O'Gorman—Antipathy to the inclinations of the President and his advisers to recognize progressive Democrats in New York, not only with regard to patronage, but concerning organization in the State; reorganization it is often termed.

Senator Hitchcock—In opposing Wilson Senator Hitchcock hopes to embarrass Bryan. Secretary Bryan has obtained most of the patronage in Nebraska and Senator Hitchcock has received little recognition at the hands of the President.

The triumvirate of Democratic opposition in the Senate has been since the beginning of the present administration. All Senators jumped away from their party during the legislation on the tariff bill. All three came around on the final vote, although they did their best to embarrass the President until then.

The three Senators stood together during the enactment of the currency bill opposing the President's right along and only voting for it in the last minutes.

In the toll bill fight they were found in the ranks opposing the President. President Wilson's efforts to have Thomas D. Jones of Chicago confirmed as a member of the Federal Reserve Board has found the triumvirate again lined up in opposition to him.

The position of Senator Reed has stung the President. Senator O'Gorman's opposition was expected, as was that of Senator Hitchcock. While Senator Reed has opposed the administration in the main since its inauguration, President Wilson did believe Senator Reed would be in favor of the confirmation of Jones. His reason for believing so was this:

Following his opposition to the President during the tariff fight and in the face of strong opposition from merchants and residents of St. Louis and the protest of Postmaster-General Burleson, the President appointed Senator Reed a congressional manager and friend. Colin M. Selph, Postmaster of St. Louis, under precedents, Senator Reed, who lives in Kansas City, had no right to ask the President to name a Reed man for the chief office in a city clear across the State from where the Senator lived.

President Wilson, according to one of his closest advisers, did not make the appointment until Senator Reed went to the President and pleaded for Selph, telling the President of his friendship for Selph and what Selph had done for him. He rectified to the President the attacks which had been made on Selph and said he was honor-bound to stand by him and work for his appointment.

Senator Reed made such an eloquent plea that when he had finished the President, who was standing at his desk, walked toward Senator Reed and said: "Senator, don't desert your friend; I will appoint him."

Selph was appointed and, according to the Post-Dispatch informant Senator Reed expressed to the President his great sense of obligation to him.

Still Opposes President. Senator Reed's opposition to the President in the currency and tolls fight followed the appointment of Selph. Senator Reed has a candidate for the place of postmaster at Kansas City, the Senator's home city. Friends of Senator Reed say he has wanted the President to make this appointment for some time; that he desires more than he did in the case of Mr. Selph, the President to give this place to his friend.

Another reason why Senator Reed wants this job is that W. R. Nelson, editor of the Kansas City Star, a bitter political enemy of Senator Reed, is opposing Reed's selection. Reed has asked for this appointment. He asked for it after his show of opposition in the currency fight and before he showed his attitude in the tolls question. He has not received the appointment.

Some of the President's friends do not hesitate to say the President regards the position of Senator Reed as one of ingratitude, for when his friend Selph was about to be defeated the President had him named for the place. These friends say that now when the President's personal friend has been named for a Federal job Reed shows his appreciation for the Selph appointment by opposing the confirmation of the President's friend and old classmate, Thomas D. Jones.

On authority close to the President it is said Senator Reed's candidate for the postmastership at Kansas City will not be appointed. The friends of the President who are advising here are steadfast in their determination to prevent the President not only naming Reed's candidate in this instance, but to ignore Senator Reed in every way hereafter.

Senator O'Gorman is said to be receiving instructions from Charles F. Murphy regarding his attitude toward the President. Friends of Senator O'Gorman assert that the attitude of President Wilson toward the Tammany machine in New York State has split the party there wide open and that all hopes of success in the gubernatorial fight this fall have been made almost nil. These friends say that the only hope for the party is in Roosevelt splitting the opposition party more than it is now.

President to Stand Pat. The President and his friends are determined not to give way an inch, and to fight the question to a finish. That this is to be the President's position now, is at least indicated by his refusal to use pressure on Senator O'Gorman in an effort to induce him to change his position with regard to Jones.

As had as President Wilson wants Jones confirmed, he will not recede in his policy of recognizing the progressive element of the Democratic party.

On July 18 the President sent to the Senate the confirmation of Harry P. Keith of Hempstead, L. I., for Commissioner of Internal Revenue, one of the lucrative Federal offices in New York. Keith is a Progressive Democrat and is anti-Murphy. He received the endorsement of such men as Franklin Roosevelt, Secretary McAdoo, William F. McCombs and other Progressive leaders.

Senator O'Gorman was not consulted about the appointment and didn't know it was going to be made. His first knowledge that Keith was nominated came when the nomination was sent to the Senate.

What is true in the case of Senators O'Gorman and Reed regarding their attitude and the determination of the administration not to treat with them in the Hitchcock. The feud between Senator Hitchcock and Bryan is bitter and of long standing. As soon as Bryan came into the Cabinet his influence with reference to Nebraska patronage was felt and Senator Hitchcock immediately got on the other side of the fence. As he took the position himself the President will do nothing to induce him to climb back. He will be allowed to remain where he is.

The effect of the attitude of the administration toward the three Senators is likely to defeat the confirmation of Jones, but the President's advisers feel that they can overcome the opposition in most instances, particularly with reference to legislation. They will take a chance on these Senators holding up other nominations, believing that the influence of the White House is strong enough with the other members of the party in the Senate to obtain confirmation on a vote.

MILITIA LOSES MANY OFFICERS BY NEW LAW

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Application of the new militia law to the National Guard has caused heavy paper mortality among the highly ornamental officers. The requirement that the militia conform in organization to regular army standards has not been met by any of the States except South Carolina, with the startling result that already there have been dropped three major-generals, 30 brigadier-generals, more than 100 colonels and a corresponding number of officers of less rank.

Through these changes there has been a great improvement in the physical fitness of the enlisted force of the militia and progress in the instruction of officers who now are really availing themselves of the kindly criticisms of the inspection officers of the United States army working among them.

BARTHOLDT HOPES MEEKER WILL BE HIS SUCCESSOR

Congressman Issues Statement
Indorsing Candidacy of Former Minister.

Congressman Richard Bartholdt in Washington Sunday issued a long statement indorsing Jacob E. Meeker, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Tenth District to succeed Bartholdt.

Meeker quit the ministry a few years ago to become a platform speaker for the anti-prohibition forces. He has visited nearly every county in Missouri in which local option elections have been held, and has even gone to other States. Before joining in the fight against prohibition, Meeker was pastor of the Compton Heights Congregational church. Bartholdt several weeks ago announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. In his statement he says he will voluntarily relinquish the office "with a more pronounced feeling of satisfaction if I can place the trust in the hands of so worthy a successor."

Much of the statement is devoted to Bartholdt's opinion that only men who are well educated, hold positive convictions and have untiring industry have lasted in Congress. In this connection he says he has been a Congressman 20 years.

He indorses Meeker as a man who possesses all the qualifications needed in a Congressman from the Tenth District, which is the largest in the United States, having a population of 450,000.

ONE of the most interesting engagements of the summer is that of Miss Mildred Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine F. Jones of Ivy Lodge, Kirkwood, to Lawrence D. Bridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson E. Bridge. The marriage will take place in November.

Miss Jones was a debutante last winter and one of the maids of honor at the Velled Prophet's ball. She is a representative of a family known for its attractive women. Her mother was formerly Miss Mattie Berkley, and her sister, Miss Fontaine Jones, married Benjamin O'Fallon Randolph.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridge are now at their summer home in Walpole, N. H., where they will stay until late in September. Their second son, George Leighton Bridge, was married June 6, in Bellows Falls, Vt., to Miss Dorothy Flint, and they are now in Europe on their wedding trip.

Word has come from Newport of the birth of a daughter to Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. Edward Howe Watson. Mrs. Watson was formerly Miss Hermine Gratz, the daughter of Benjamin Gratz. Her marriage a few years ago was a notable one. Commander Watson, who is in the United States Navy, is on duty at the torpedo station at Newport.

Miss Fanny McPheeters, who has been visiting relatives in St. Louis since she returned for the wedding of her cousin, Miss Grace Valle Price, and Robert E. Price, in April, has gone to Old Sweet Springs, W. Va., to join her aunt, Mrs. William Meade Robinson, of Louisville, and spend the rest of the summer.

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles D. Rogers are expected here within the next ten days to visit Mrs. Rogers' parents, Maj. and Mrs. George W. Goode, at 744 Washington boulevard. They are on their way from Fort Oglethorpe to the Philippines, Lieut. Rogers new station.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Horan, 6338 Waterman avenue, Parkview, are in New York. They will sail Tuesday on the Aquitania for a short tour abroad.

Misses Glen and Julia Sherrill of 2889 Nina place departed Tuesday for a few weeks' visit in Memphis.

Mrs. Otto E. Rugg of the Buckingham Annex and her children are at Spring Lake for the summer.

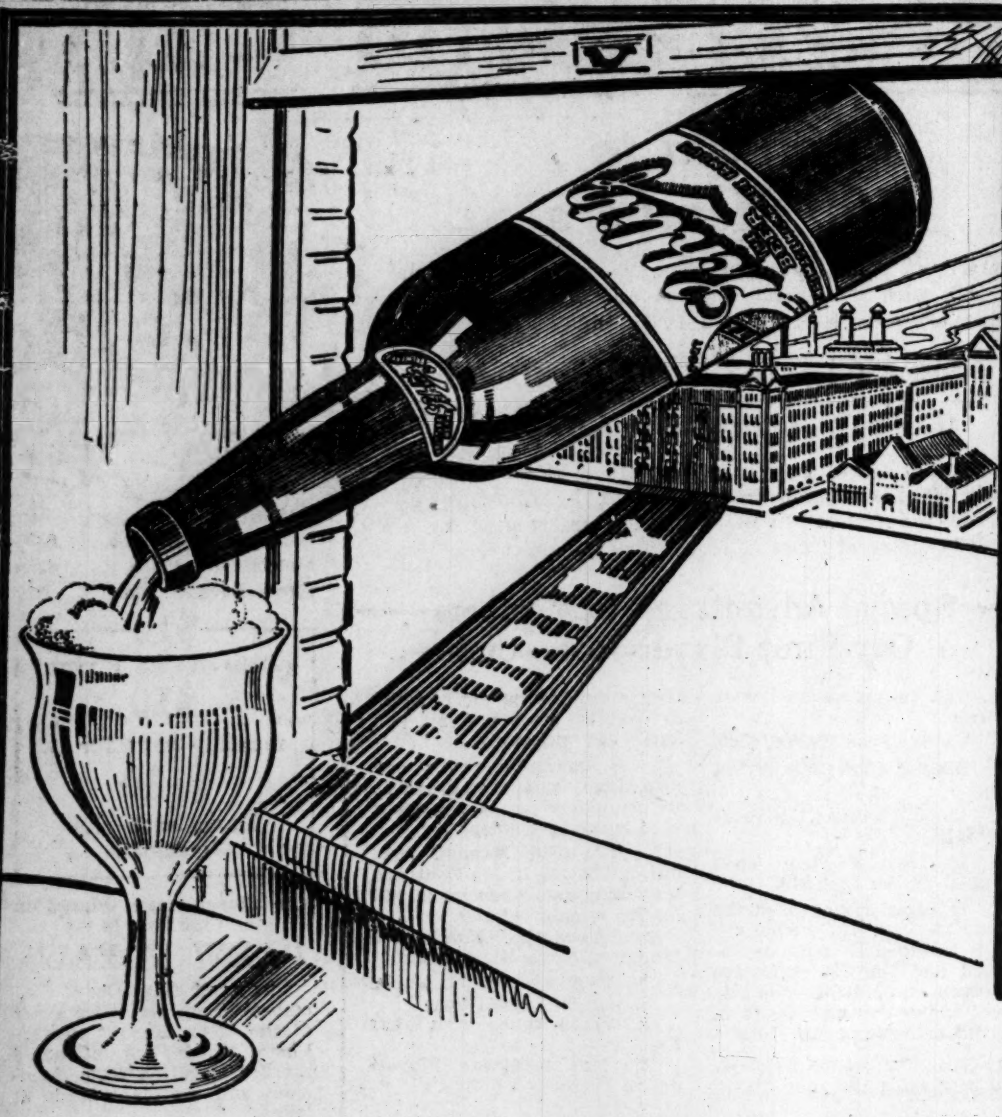

Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Schell of 6041 Berlin avenue have departed on a trip to Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, New York and Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Cohn of the West End Hotel are spending the summer at Northern lake resorts.

The following persons have just returned from a river trip to the battlefield of Shiloh: Mmes. Thomas Scully, Mathew Courtney, Charles Bowens, Henry Helbel, Joseph H. Schroeder, William Kilpatrick; Messrs. Henry Reithel and Clem B. Schroeder.

Miss Julia C. Buchka of 1831 North Ninth street, who has been touring Yellowstone Park, Colorado Springs and Denver for the last two months, with a party, will return the latter part of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest George Sewell of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Sewell's brother, Arthur A. Wirt, are guests of the Buckingham Hotel. Mrs. Sewell will be remembered as Miss Adele Wait, Mrs. George S. Reid, nurse, and two children of Miami, Fla., formerly of St. Louis, are also guests in the city. Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Sewell are sisters.

MAN WANTS TO APPEAR IN COURT WITHOUT COAT

Lawyer Requests Missouri Code Revision Committee to Recommend Change in Law.

James J. McMullen of 235 Madison street, a lawyer, has appealed to the Missouri Code Revision Committee, asking the State laws be changed so coatless men may enter a courtroom in hot weather.

Recently McMullen entered a Criminal Court when the thermometer registered 85 degrees. He was coatless and was informed he could not remain. He protested he was "immaculately clean in every respect," as Assistant Health Commissioner Jordan said in his plea that coatless men be admitted in hotel dining rooms.

Q Your money goes to the bank somehow. Do you take it there—or does some one else?

Q Has it occurred to you that virtually all the money you spend finds its way to some banking institution? It's a simple proposition after all. Much that you spend for necessities—as well as luxuries—is saved by somebody else.

Q You may consider the nickels, dimes and quarters that you spend, with only a passing thought, too insignificant to save. Yet it is easy to observe that hundreds of people around you are eager to get those small sums of yours. And rest assured they take them to the bank—along with many other small sums like yours.

Q Isn't it better, when you think the matter over, to take your money to the bank yourself? Of course, you cannot save all you earn, but you can and should deposit a part of your income in a Mercantile Savings Account.

JUDGE JOKES ABOUT SPEEDING, STAYS 9 FINES

Policeman Says Chauffeur Ran at High Speed Past People From Churches.

Justice Robert Walker, sitting for Judge Kimmel in the Municipal Police Court, was in a lenient mood toward automobile speeders Monday. He fined nine of them $5 each and then stayed the fine on good behavior.

When Policeman Johnson testified that Otto E. Goebel of 2710 North Twenty-fifth street, president of the St. Louis Motion Picture Co., had run his automobile at a speed of 35 miles an hour at Magnolia and Grand avenues, Sunday, Justice Walker smiled and asked:

"Were there any politicians in the machine?"

Johnson replied there were men and women in the machine.

"Well," said the Justice, "politicians are apt to do a little speeding at this time."

Candidate in Primary.
Walker is in the primary campaign as a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction.

In none of the speeding cases before him Monday did Walker ask the policeman for any details as to the offense.

In each instance he merely asked how fast the automobile was going.

One of those on trial was William Speech, a chauffeur, of 1215 North Union boulevard. Patrolman Byrne testified Speech was going 35 miles an hour at Park and Ohio avenues Sunday morning. After the trial Byrne said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "If the Judge had asked me, I would have told him that, while speeding, Speech passed several churches and Sunday schools which were being dismissed and came near running down several children."

Judge Kimmel's Court.

The other speeders whose fines were stayed were John Ford, 3232 South Ninth street; Albert Flebbie, 1315 Lami street; Clarence L. Speer, 5128 Delmar boulevard; Charles Edlin, 1324 Academy avenue; Clark Bean, 428 Garfield avenue; F. Schlemmer, 726 Clara avenue, and Leo B. Chamberlain, 2631 Page boulevard. It has been the custom of Judge Kimmel to fine first offenders $5 for speeding and to collect the fine.

EXPULSED TURNER SUES FOR HIS REINSTATEMENT

F. A. Cammann Declares Tower Grove Society Did not Grant Him a Fair Trial.

F. A. Cammann of 3643 Wyoming street, president of the F. A. Cammann Builders' Service Co., Monday filed a writ of mandamus in the Circuit Court asking re-instatement in the Tower Grove Turnverein, from which he alleges he was illegally expelled Nov. 12, 1913.

The suit is directed against the Turnverein, F. W. Clemens of 3351 Gravois avenue, a former president of the Turnverein, and 15 members. Cammann, with three others, was expelled for publishing charges against Clemens, then president, "certain charges and accusations" in the Tower Grove "Turner" in February and March, 1913.

Cammann, who was chairman of the Committee on Mental Culture and also a member of the Board of Directors of the Turnverein, alleges he was not given a fair trial, that the board did not have a quorum when he was tried and that the charges against him were not warranted. Under the laws of all turnverein societies, he cannot join another turnverein society until five years after his expulsion.

MAN HELD IN STOLEN AUTO CASE BREAKS JAIL

Police Here Are Notified of the Escape of Prisoner, Edgar F. Sale, at Linn, Mo.

The police were notified Monday by the authorities of Linn, Mo., of the escape of Edgar F. Sale from the jail there, where he was awaiting trial on the charge of bringing stolen property into the county. He pushed out the bars of his cell and jumped 12 feet to the ground.

The property Sale was alleged to have taken to Linn was the automobile of George F. Hanks, stolen from Forest Park Highlands July 11. Sale sold it to Roy Franklin of Linn. It is alleged, for $300. Franklin discovered the license tag had been tampered with and became suspicious. Sale was pursued eight miles and arrested. He had $450 in his pockets. Ownership of the automobile was traced by means of the tag. Hanks and a detective went after the machine, but the Linn authorities insisted on keeping Sale there for trial.

300 HINDUS BUILD FORTIFICATIONS ON SHIP AT VANCOUVER

Preparations Made to Resist
When Canada Renews Efforts to Deport Them.

WATCHFUL AFTER FIGHT

Aid of Cruiser Awaited to Get Rid of Party Sent Over by Rich Indian.

VANCOUVER, July 20.—A night marked by ceaseless watching on the part of the immigration officials in their patrol tugs and launches passed peacefully in the vicinity of the steamer Komagata Maru, aboard which 300 Hindus are resisting deportation.

Having repulsed the police early Sunday morning, the Hindus have spent the time since in erecting fortifications on board the ship, carrying up chunks of coal for immediate use as missiles and generally making ready for another attack.

No move will be made for a couple of days to take the Komagata Maru and her passengers out of the harbor. Such was the decision reached today. The likelihood then is that the Canadian cruiser Rainbow will be ready to cross from Esquimaux, where she has been repairing, for the purpose of conveying the Japanese vessel beyond the three-mile limit, if not further.

Hindus Stand Guard.
The Hindus are in a jubilant mood today. With the tug Sea Lion circling around the big Japanese steamer, relays of men are standing guard to give the alarm for repelling boarders.

On shore there is a division in the ranks of local Hindus and at Sikh Temple last night there was the nearest approach to trouble. The Hindus were in Hindutown for some time, when one accused another of treachery.

Of the men wounded in Sunday morning battle, only two of the police remain in the hospital suffering from their injuries, and it is expected they will be out in the course of a few days.

A pitched battle between immigration inspectors, 175 special police and the Hindus took place on board the Komagata Maru when the ship's officer asked shore aid in handling their belligerent passengers. The Hindus, it was said, used force in preventing the officers from getting the ship under way.

A shower of coal and other missiles rained from the ship on the officers who attempted to board the steamer from the tug Sea Lion. In the face of the fire the attacking party retreated and the attempt to board the steamer was abandoned.

Hindus Braved Fire Hose.
The Hindus braved a stream from a big hose which the tug turned on them and pelted the men on the decks of the tug not only with lumps of coal, but also with fire bricks and pieces of iron from what is believed to have been the wreckage of the engine room on the steamer.

The Komagata has been in the harbor three months, during which time the Hindus have displayed ugliness and this has been intensified since the Dominion Government decided that they were undesirable aliens and not entitled to entry.

The expense of the trip to Vancouver was borne by Gurdit Singh, a wealthy Hindu who chartered the vessel. During the long stay in port, while their status was being determined, the Hindus have been provisioned both by their countrymen ashore and the British Columbian authorities. Food sufficient for the trip back to the Orient was stored in the vessel last week.

The Hindus claimed the right to land as British subjects. The courts overruled them, sustaining the immigration officials. The Hindus have been rebellious and several times attempted to land, but were prevented.

TELLS POLICE HE HEARD BURGLAR FOR 2 HOURS

Youth Fires Shot at Departing
Intruder and Finds Nothing Stolen.

William Schaub, 20 years old, of 3944 Castleman avenue, told the police he sat up in bed for two hours early Monday and listened to a burglar prowling about on the first floor of his home. He was afraid to take any action, he said, because he did not want to disturb his mother, Mrs. Sophia Schaub.

About 3:35 Schaub heard the kitchen door close. Looking from his bedroom window he saw the burglar going through the back yard. He got his revolver and fired at the intruder as the latter was vaulting the back fence. Nothing was missing from the Schaub home.

HELD FOR THE CORONER

Woman Performed Operation,
Said Patient Who Died.

Following the death of Mrs. Julia Hosenstein, 30 years old, of 1914A Carr street, at the Jewish Hospital Sunday evening, the police ordered Mrs. Olga M. Timke, 46 years old, a midwife, of 418 Grove street, held for the coroner.

Dr. S. T. Lipitz of 1013 North Fourteenth street told the police Mrs. Hosenstein's death was the result of an illegal operation.

Mrs. Hosenstein, before her death, identified Mrs. Timke and said she paid the midwife $5 for an operation which was performed July 18. Mrs. Timke denied this and said that while she had been consulted by Mrs. Hosenstein, she prescribed only a headache tablet.

PROSECUTOR SAYS ICE OUSTER CAN BE ENFORCED

Louis C. Johnson Believes
Polar Wave Controls
Prices Illegally.

COURT HOLDS WHIP HAND Against Company May Be Revoked and Ouster De- clared in Force.

Louis C. Johnson, appointed by Gov. Major as special prosecutor of the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., informed the Post-Dispatch Monday that payment of the $25,000 fine against the "Ice Trust" may be stopped and the State Supreme Court may declare an unconditional ouster from its charter, if the court is advised that the recent 30 per cent rate in rates was made arbitrarily because the ice supply is controlled by the Polar Wave.

Johnson, who is on a vacation trip, telegraphed the Post-Dispatch he would consult with Attorney-General Barker before deciding on his future course of action.

The special prosecutor had been informed that Assistant Attorney-General W. T. Rutherford, after an investigation disclosing that rivals of the Polar Wave could not compete for its customers because the ice supply was controlled, had announced that the anti-trust laws did not forbid a raise in rates, except where an illegal agreement to do so was entered into between two or more competing concerns.

Rutherford, who departed for Jefferson City Saturday, said that the investigation already gathered in by the State Supreme Court, returned to St. Louis Monday and said he had not decided what action to recommend and that he would continue his investigation before reporting to Attorney-General Barker.

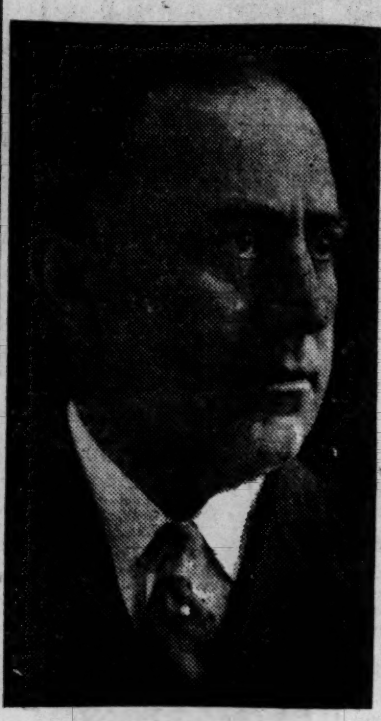

Ouster Suspended.
The decision of the Supreme Court last April, holding the Polar Wave to be an illegal corporation designed to lessen competition, suspended judgment of ouster from its charter, on condition that the company do nothing further to lessen competition, and pay a fine of $50,000.

On July 2 the court refused to modify the terms of the decree, but on a plea of clemency reduced the $50,000 fine to $25,000 "during good behavior," and gave the company 30 days in which to pay the fine. The fine has not yet been paid.

Confidently to Rutherford's view that an illegal agreement between Polar Wave officials and officials of other companies must be shown to have brought about the recent rate increase, the Supreme Court in its decision written by Chief Justice Graves, said that any act of the company committed with a view to lessening competition made it amenable to the penalties of the anti-trust law.

When asked by telegram what action he would recommend as special prosecutor, Johnson replied:

BUSINESS MAN WHO IS DROWNED IN RIVER

CHARLES A. PARKER.

"Jurisdiction was retained by the Supreme Court so that people could be protected from arbitrary exactions which the company could otherwise impose because of its great power acquired in a manner violative of the anti-trust act."

Cannot Control Prices.
"As the Court held, no new violation of the anti-trust law has to be shown to invoke the imposition of the suspended fine and ouster. It is but necessary to prove an unreasonable exercise of the powers acquired by the consolidation, which the Court already has decided to have been illegal. To be specific, the company has no power illegally to control prices. If it seeks to do so, the terms of its parole have been violated and the parole doubtless will be revoked by the Supreme Court upon a proper showing."

"Am not advised of developments since Thursday instant, but having been special counsel for the State, employed by Gov. Major, I feel I have performed my duty by bringing the matter of joint action by the Polar Wave and Merchants' companies officially to the attention of his successor, Attorney-General Barker."

Johnson had been informed by telegram of Rutherford's opinion and the fact that Rutherford was told by an official of the Merchants Ice and Coal Co. that it could not maintain the old rates and take over dissatisfied customers of the Polar Wave because it could not buy more ice in the local field. Rutherford was informed that the Polar Wave had refused to sell ice to the Merchants company, although it sold ice to every smaller dealer who applied, at published rates, running from $2.25 to $2.50 per ton.

Met With Loss.
At the Polar Wave offices Rutherford learned the "Ice Trust" bought ice from manufacturers in large quantities at $2.25 per ton and sold it at the same price to dealers, thereby sustaining a loss in hauling, handling and storing this "contract ice."

Upon his return Monday, Rutherford said he knew the Polar Wave was selling ice to some dealers at less than it paid for some of its contract ice, but he questioned whether this was a restraint of trade or tended to lessen competition.

FOUR MEN DROWN IN ONE DAY IN WATERS NEAR CITY

Charles A. Parker, Member of
Two Business Firms, Seized
With Cramps in River.

Four men were drowned in the vicinity of St. Louis Sunday.

Charles A. Parker, 42 years old, of 5886 Clemens avenue, vice-president of the Gausman-Parker House Furnishing Co. and a member of the firm of Parker & Block, fur dealers, was drowned while bathing off Maple Island in the Mississippi River near Alton. He had gone there with a yacht party in which was his brother, Stanley L. Parker.

After diving into the water from a sandbar at the lower end of the island, Parker swam strongly for a few minutes and then called for help, telling his friends on shore that he had a cramp.

Henry Kulage of 124 Baden avenue and Joseph Alsbach, 326 Bitter street, members of the party, swam out to Parker. Both imperiled their own lives in their effort to rescue the drowning man.

He grappled with them and twice carried them under the water with him. Kulage and Alsbach did not give up the attempt until they were exhausted and almost drowned. They were unconscious when pulled from the water by other members of the party, who worked over them half an hour before reviving them.

A telegram which advised her to come home at once was sent to Mrs. Parker Sunday night. The message did not tell of the drowning and she did not learn of it until she entered her home Monday. Then she fainted.

Had Been on Visit.
Parker returned Saturday from a visit to his wife and three children, who were visiting relatives at La Grange, Mo. Efforts made to recover the body Sunday afternoon and evening were unsuccessful.

Roy Reed, 30 years old, a printer, of Rolla, Mo., was drowned in the Meramec River near Meramec Highlands. He went into the river a short time after eating a hearty meal and was seized with cramps. Garland C. Culver of 2121 Geyer avenue, who had gone to the Meramec with Reed, made several attempts to rescue him, but the drowning man fought him off.

Stake in Municipal Pool.
Paul Tertionovits, 35 years old, of 1200 North Third street, East St. Louis, suddenly sank out of sight while in the municipal pool in Jones Park, East St. Louis. Life guards brought him to the surface. A physician found he was dead and said he had suffered a heart stroke while in the water.

The body of Manuel Cupa, 24 years old, of 1312 Division avenue, East St. Louis, was found in a settling basin at the Malleable Iron Works in East St. Louis Sunday. His clothing lay near the edge of the pool. It had been Cupa's nightly custom to take a plunge in the basin after finishing his work.

CHINESE FIRM TO BUILD U. S. ARMY HOSPITAL

Obtains $149,000 Contract for Work to Be Done in Hawaiian Islands.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The War Department has just let a good fat contract to a Chinese firm for construction of part of the army hospital at Fort Shafter, Hawaiian Islands. This is the first time on record that the United States Government had let such a contract to a foreign firm especially to Chinese who are prohibited from competition with American labor in this country by the Chinese exclusion law. In one case the army Quartermaster at the Presidio of San Francisco did employ a number of foreigners on certain construction work there, which led to a fruitless protest from the labor element in San Francisco.

In the present case the Chinese firm was the lowest bidder for the hospital at $149,000.

PARACHUTE OPENS AFTER MAN DROPS 200 FEET

Sudden Descent Alarms Crowd at Picnic, but Aeronaut Lands Safely.

William Griffin of East St. Louis, a steel worker, who had made five balloon ascensions previously, caused excitement at a picnic of the Eagles' order at Central Park, East St. Louis, Sunday, by dropping 200 feet in a parachute before it opened.

Griffin found some difficulty in cutting loose the parachute at an altitude of about 200 feet, and hot air and smoke began to escape from the big bag before he finally swung free, hanging to the parachute. The crowd was alarmed at his sudden descent, but Griffin floated gently to an open field and landed without injury.

PRESIDENT AIDS DAMS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Wilson today came out in support of the dam bills agreed upon at a series of White House conferences and now pending in Congress.

In answer to inquiries he said he believed them to be in accord with the best conservation ideas and in no sense party measures. The President said he considered himself as much a conservationist as anyone else.

3 MEN TRY TO HOLD UP A PATROLMAN DISGUISED AS RUBE

"He Ought to Be Easy," Says
Highwayman, but Revolver
Dispels Idea.

Three men who attempted to hold up Patrolman F. A. Kuhl while he was on special duty, disguised as a "rube," at the entrance to an alley running from Nineteenth to Twentieth street, between Lucas avenue and Morgan street, Sunday night, were stopped by Kuhl, who pressed his revolver against the stomach of one. He arrested William Tobin, 21 years old, an iron molder, of 3025 Easton avenue. The other two escaped.

Kuhl and Policeman William Harrington were patrolling the former restricted district garbed as workmen, on instructions to arrest women of the streets. They had separated, Kuhl walking south on Eighteenth, at Lucas avenue, Kuhl said, three men passed him, one of them nodding toward him and saying, "That ought to be easy."

One Man Springs at Him.
Kuhl said he walked on Lucas avenue to Twentieth street, and then toward Morgan. The three men emerged from the alley, two walking to either side of him, and the third straight toward him. The third man suddenly sprang at him, grabbing him around the neck. Kuhl said he had prepared for it, and thrust his revolver against his assailant's stomach, warning him he would be killed if he moved.

Kuhl said he tried to back the three men at the point of the revolver toward Morgan street, where he was to meet Harrington, but that the other two escaped. At the station, Tobin said he and his associates thought Kuhl was an old friend, and were just going to tease him.

Within the last week, Kuhl and Harrington have arrested 51 women on the streets of the former restricted district, of whom 30 were in the Dayton Street Police Court Monday.

18 Women Ordered to Move.
In reply to the many complaints from residents in the 2600 block on Olive street, the Police Department has issued a list with the names of 18 women to be arrested. In the last two months, they have been ordered to move from the district bounded by Jefferson, Vandeventer, Laclede and Washington avenues.

POLICE EXPENDED $2,093,205 IN YEAR ARRESTED 39,357

Department Spent $89,784 Less Than Appropriation Report for Fiscal Period Shows.

The annual report of the Police Department for the fiscal year ending March 31, was delivered at headquarters Monday by the printer. The expense of running the department was $2,093,205.18, which was $39,784.82 less than the appropriations.

The police arrested 39,357 persons, recovered $545.08 stolen money, stolen property valued at $322,784.54, lost property valued at $129,478.75, reported 10,252 sanitary nuisances, 10,215 of which cases they absconded themselves; photographed 150 criminals and made a record of 233 fraudulent checks were cashed by merchants.

The report gives the population of St. Louis as 887,300, but this figure includes 40,000 employees and employes in Central District, who also are included in the population of the residence districts.

Temperatures to Be Normal During Week, Is the Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Another week of generally fair weather, with moderate temperatures, is forecast by the Weather Bureau.

"The indications are that the temperature during the week will average near or below the normal over all parts of the country," said the bulletin, "with little probability of extremely high readings in any section. The rainfall during the week generally will be light and local."

"No important disturbance is charted to cross the country during the week, although an area of low pressure, which will appear over the far West Tuesday, will move eastward slowly, attended by local showers and thunderstorms, and will reach the Eastern States about the end of the week."

"This disturbance will be followed by cooler weather over the Northern and Central States. There are no indications of a disturbance in the West Indies at the present time."

KING GEORGE CALLS PARTY LEADERS TO CONFER ON ULSTER

Action Causes Belief That Acceptable Settlement Will Be Reached.

LONDON, July 20.—The news that King George had called a round-table conference of the leaders of all the political parties in the United Kingdom to discuss the crisis in the Province of Ulster caused a pleasant surprise today in political circles here. It was felt that a conference under the direct auspices of the King would result in a settlement which even the extremists of both sides in Ireland would be compelled to accept.

Premier Asquith and the other political leaders returned to town today, but none of them would discuss the latest developments of the Irish situation. The King also curtailed his visit to Spitham and returned quickly to London after reviewing the fleet. He went at once to Buckingham Palace for the conference.

Van Ness' Honeymoon

In Which Mrs. Van Ness, the Bride, Plays She Is Single Again and Staggers the Egotism of a Summer-Resort Man Flirt.

By Agnes Kreker.

THE boys had sent for Ashbee to help them. "She's the sort of thing a fellow never forgets," Dalbale had written. "She's everything before her without anybody being able to impress her. We fellows are not at all points: I'd God-damn any lucky chap who got a run at her. You're a pretty clever one, but you're a little bit of a snob, and say your heart's of marble so you'd better come over and vindicate your better self."

After that Ashbee had rather looked at something superb, and during his first few moments he was so much taken by Dalbale's words that he was unable to understand the potency of the words which radiated from so beautiful a face and figure and which he had never seen before.

"The apple of a score of glowing eyes and the sole inspiration of half as many appealingly diligent tongues, the little lady in the middle of the evening suddenly leaped out of her hammock to scamper across to a cluster of wall-flowers. A number of men trailed after her, Ashbee, whose conversation with Dalbale had been so full of interest, turned restlessly to Dalbale with:

"If he blasted indifference that drives you donkeys mad. Why don't you get up to a rival game? I see there are lots here that are worth while."

"That's where you're off it, Dalbale," Dalbale answered. "Well, all back you in anything you try but the certainty of your trick is no go. You should see her erging us on! I thought you probably would be getting busy with the lady by this time so made other plans for the evening. Come along!"

"Thank you, I'll stay here," Ashbee replied thoughtfully, remaining in the very chair he had first chosen for an inspection of the lonesome, and soon growing dreamily apathetic to his environs.

At the end of the evening when the deserted and empty chairs were strewn about the earlier mirth, Roselle came fluttering back after a book she had left in the hammock. She glanced at Ashbee, but he kept his eyes fixed upon a widow with her small boy trailing a lugubrious stroll over the lawn.

Roselle tossed herself into the hammock and lay there, keeping infinitely close. Why Ashbee had been so much taken by Dalbale's words she could not tell. It seemed a half hour when she at last observed:

"I don't believe you care especially for women's society, do you?"

"That would be a rather rude admission to make to you, Miss Roselle," "Oh, no, you mustn't mind me. I'm just for one evening, will you?"

"This irrepressible ingenuously maled every barrier to a long and amiable tete-a-tete. As the two parted, Ashbee suggested that they go for a walk on the morning, and when she said "Jolly," he smiled a thousand times while reflecting upon the instant of the girl's success. "A little kindness; that's all she needed!"

own, thus summarily repudiating and avenging his slights.

"At the secret places of his heart, however, there was the most penetrating humility. Its marbles were merely a shrine for very penitential prayers.

Ashbee had flirted and gayly deceived over since he had first donned the insignia of his sex's dress, or even before, but he still bewailed every gentle heart he had afflicted. He felt now that it would not do to have this one more girl imagine he was serious when he said everything was a joke.

Roselle must be warned, even if it was going to be very hard and very awkward. So when they came out among the walnuts where he had always waxed most sentimental he began softly and slowly with:

"Miss Roselle, I wonder whether you can understand a really frivolous man, a regular chump, you know, that goes and does all sorts of things he ought not to, plays with fire when he knows it's going to hurt somebody at a very vulnerable place—and all for his own amusement?"

Roselle said nothing.

"Roselle, girl, you hurt me when you are so quiet, and I've got to tell you, I'm just that kind of a villain. There, it's mighty tough to say it. But don't you know I've acted the simple since I've met you, I don't?"

His interlocutor continued ominously suppressed. He blundered more. "But there are lots of nice fellows who would roll over in the mud if they thought it would please you. I've been thinking, and hoping, that perhaps you cared for me. I'm a trifler! Now, he's a fine fellow, that boy. He's worth your while. I'm not; I'm!"

Then the lady spoke.

"Stop it, Mr. Ashbee. Never mind. It's all right. I'm a villain, too. Mr. Van Ness has told me all about it from the beginning. You see I have known that he's worth while. I'm married to him. We're on our honeymoon; we thought we'd do something out of the ordinary, you know, and it's been lots of fun. But between you and me, we're going back to the common rut of cooling bridal couples tomorrow morning, way up in the mountains all by ourselves.

"So good-by, Mr. Ashbee, and don't feel too surprised and don't try it on other girls."

Love and the Boy

LOVE was journeying onward one day through a quiet road when he came across a little boy crying for his mother.

"Come with me," said Love, "and I will help you find her." So they went on together.

After a while they met a drunkard. He was a very terrible person and leaned up against a tree and leered. The boy was frightened, but Love took out an arrow from his quiver and aimed at the drunkard's heart.

"Don't kill him," pleaded the boy, "but he spoke bad words to the drunkard's heart. And lo! instead of killing him, it seemed to give him strength and courage, and he straightened up. Then he fell on his knees and vowed he would never touch another drop. They passed on. By and by they came to a tired young man, working in a dusty, smelly office. He was adding up a very long column of figures.

"Till at you," said Love, and once more adjusted his bow and arrow. The boy cried to stop, but Love already had pulled his bow. The arrow sped straight and true to the young man's heart. He, too, instantly straightened up; he smiled, and most marvelous of all—the dirty office disappeared—and there was a beautiful young girl with red blond curls and her arms stretched toward the young man.

And as they journeyed on Love vowed his arrows on almost everyone he saw—soldier, scientist, philosopher—and each time the boy, still unable to believe, would protest, and each time would be delighted with the result of Cupid's shot.

After a while the boy became very thoughtful. At last he turned to Love and said:

"Look here! Why can't you shoot me and bring my mother back to me?"

This made Love laugh. He laughed so hard he actually rolled over on the grass. And while the boy was wondering and Love was laughing, the boy's mother suddenly appeared.

Maybe he wasn't glad to see her! Maybe she didn't hug him tight! Then the boy turned to Love and said: "I don't quite see what you are laughing at."

And Love replied: "I was laughing at the absurd, ridiculous, preposterous idea of wasting an arrow on your mother. I knew she would come back. All that was needed was a little love. Young man, I would have you know that I only use my arrows where they are necessary—Life."

Tommie Mouse and the Brownie

Sandman Story of How He Was Changed Into a Cat and Found Out How Hard It Was to Get Something to Eat.

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

TOMMIE MOUSE was lonesome one day and he took himself off to the woods.

Tommie Mouse ran along under the leaves and dry twigs when he suddenly heard a voice close to him say: "What are you doing?"

Tommie Mouse jumped and he crawled back under the rock as far as he could but he peeked out and saw the tiniest man he had ever seen.

"He can't hurt me," thought Tommie Mouse. "He is not much longer than I am."

So Tommie ran out from his hiding place and the little man stood up and looked at him.

"So you are the one who disturbed me," said the little man. "What are you doing out here, Tommie Mouse? You better go home."

"How did you know my name?" asked Tommie.

"Oh! We know all the Mouse family," answered the little man.

"Who are you?" asked Tommie Mouse.

"I am a Brownie," answered the little man. "Didn't you ever see one before?"

Tommie told him he had not, but that he had always wanted to see one, because he wanted to ask a favor.

"What is it you want?" asked the Brownie.

"Well, you see, I am tired of being a mouse and I am tired of being so small. I would like to be a cat. So if you please, Mr. Brownie, will you change me into a cat? I think I should like to be white, too, if you please."

"I will have to see the fairies about that," said the Brownie. "I advise you, though, not to be changed into a cat; you better keep your own shape."

But Tommie Mouse pleaded so hard that he was so determined upon being a cat that the Brownie promised to see if he could change him into a cat, and a white one, too.

Of course, Tommie Mouse thought he would have to go to the woods again to meet his friend, the Brownie, before the fairy could change him into a cat, so he ran home and crawled into his hole, which led into the cellar of a house, and it is a good thing his home was in a cellar, because the next morning when Tommie Mouse awoke he wasn't a mouse at all but a big white cat. Tommie was a little frightened when he thought of what might have happened if his home had been in a hole instead of in the corner of the cellar.

Tommie looked all about the cellar,

Why Love Is Really an Intoxication

Science Now Says Love Sickness Is Actual and Can Tell You the Physical Changes.

LOVE is a disease of the nerve centers, according to a recent Italian publication. It is accompanied by marked leucocytosis, and is very likely to develop into neurasthenia or even insanity.

The ancients seem to have believed something of the same sort. The philosopher Empedocles, for instance, professed to have been present at the post mortem of a hapless one who had died of love.

His observations led him to the conclusion that the heart of the victim was "combust," his liver was inflamed, his lungs were completely "dried up." To his philosophic mind this went to prove that the soul of the subject was either "sodden or roasted through the vehemency of love's fire."

Calien, who was considered at the head of the medical profession in his time, made at least one experiment to get at the pathology of the tender passion.

His patient was a young woman dying of love. The supposed object of her affection was brought to her bedside unexpectedly, the physician, in the meantime, keeping his finger on her pulse.

He noticed an immediate increase in the flow of blood, and the fact has been preserved in the literature of the profession.

A HOST of later writers have ventured into the pathology of love. Some jestingly and others in all seriousness, and the consensus of their opinions is to be found in the term "love-sick," which is common enough to express a popular belief.

But Burton goes into the matter in a coldly scientific manner. Love isn't any more to him than the mumps, a bug, a humor, or anything else that happens to be dumped into his laboratory for investigation.

He takes the lover, feels his pulse, thumps his thorax, listens to his lungs, examines his heart and eyelashes, and asks what he has eaten and how it agrees with him. He keeps a careful case record from day to day, which is studied just as if it were a record of pneumonia. Thus he looks into the depths of scores of hearts, and finally arrives at a conclusion.

He finds that, in the last analysis, the tender passion is an intoxication of the nerve centers. It has a most pronounced effect upon the circulation system, especially if the patient is young and suffering from a first attack.

A microscopic examination of the patient's blood invariably reveals leucocytosis. Usually the malady is progressive, and unless speedily checked, very likely to develop into incurable neurasthenia, if not complete mental overthrow.

His conclusion is that the profusion of blood vessels, which is a confession that he has none to offer. The bacillus has been identified, so that no vaccine is within reach. And, besides, as he himself admits, the victim never wishes to be cured, which is the most discouraging feature of the whole matter.

According to an Italian mathematician, every person in the world could stand comfortably in an area of 500 square miles, while a grave-digger of the size of Colorado would bury all of them.

THE SANDMAN STORY WILL BE CONCLUDED TOMORROW.

Porch Patter

By Alma Woodward

Scene: Prospect House porch, Emerald Lake.

Several ladies in more or less advanced stages of embroidered centerpieces and monogrammed guest towels, are sitting about. Here and there a dab of white flannel, topped by dark blue, provides masculine relief. I, R. A. (calling): Lucille, Lucille!

Don't throw any more wet mud at Sammy, dear! It isn't sweet to do that.

Mrs. B. (excitedly): My goodness! Is she throwing things at my Sammy again? That's the third suit he's had on today. Can't you stop her?

Mr. C. (jumping into the breach): Such sweet children! How old is Lucille?

Mrs. A. (only 6. Isn't she enormous for her age?)

Mrs. B. (still pugnacious): Why do you keep on saying "is" when it's the middle of July and she's going to be the 4th of August?

Mrs. A. (snapping back): A child's age?

Mr. C. (till at ease): She's a lovely child. So nice and fat, isn't she?

Mrs. A. (indignantly): No, indeed. She isn't a bit fat. Fat children are not healthy. She's just good and plump, that's all. Lucille, dear, don't put your little, oily pooties all over Mr. C's white shoes. You see, you've left quite a few mud marks as it is, and that doesn't please Mr. Camp at all.

Mr. C. (with difficulty): Oh, that's all right. Now tell me how old you are, Lucille.

Mrs. A. (beaming): Tell the nice gentleman how old you are, darling. And don't amuse your wet, little fingers all over his white felt hat. Don't put any more spots on it than you can help—there's mud on the little girl's head!

(Lucille proceeds to "shin up" Mr. C's white flannel leg and reduces it to the consistency of wrinkled crepe.)

Mr. C. (trying to be a lover of children): Now, will you answer another game? What's that you've got there?

(Lucille has had concealed about her person a bottle of captive polywogs. She releases them from their surroundings, and Mr. C's white put silk shirt and his pale cerise crepe de chine tie. Mr. C. decides immediately that he can't be a lover of children.)

Mrs. A. smiling behind her hand at Mr. C.: Really one ought to be quite angry with the little things for pranks like this, but I declare, they're so cute and sweet about it, one can't bring one's self to.

Mr. C. (in disgust): Can't one? Huh! (exits in high dudgeon.)

Mrs. A. (looking after him): Ah! It's a shame, the people there are in this world, who can't enter into the joyous spirit of childhood. They miss so much in life!

CHAPTERS FROM A WOMAN'S LIFE

By Dale Drummond.

CHAPTER LIII.

It was a raw, chilly day in November when we reached New York. Jack met us and was unfeignedly glad to see us.

"The rest from care and housework has done you lots of good, Sue. You look as fresh as a daisy."

"I can say the same about you!" I returned. "You don't look like the same man. Why, I believe you have grown stout!"

Really I could not take my eyes off of him. He was brown, had been playing golf nearly every day, he explained. The tired, worried look had nearly disappeared. One thing, however, gave me a distinct shock. The hair over his temples was quite gray.

When I spoke of it he laughingly told me "it was that way, or nearly so, when you left, but you were too busy to notice." I didn't think so, but perhaps he might every day I had been unobservant.

The day after my return I went over to the Terrace with him. He was so anxious for me to see the house that he could scarcely wait. It was very nearly finished. The painters were still at work, and the plumbers and electricians were busily completing their respective tasks.

"We'll commence at the top, Sue, and work our way down," Jack suggested.

W. E. started on the third floor. The servants' quarters and the play room. We looked at each room in turn. It was lovely! The shining woodwork, the hardwood floors, the best in the city. Jack explained the tiled hall rooms; the bedrooms done in different colors, ours in pink and French gray, mother's in a sunny yellow, the children's in blue. The guest room in rose.

"I told Jack, 'I dream.' But as I said it the thought of how badly our old furniture would look in it crossed my mind.

When we reached the main floor Jack piloted me to the front of the house. The big living room in soft shades of French windows was lovely. The long porch as Jack had planned. The reception hall with its winding staircase, the dark balustrade supported by white spindles, was a perfect joy to see. The large fireplace, with quaint settlers, also white, was a surprise for me. The windows, diamond paned, harmonized with the room.

"This is lovely!" I exclaimed. "I can see it will be my favorite room."

"I thought you would like it, dear!" was Jack's only answer.

Then we looked at the dining room. It was paneled in old oak and had a raftered ceiling. It was wonderful.

"Why, Jack! This must have cost a fortune!" I exclaimed, delighted.

"Not quite," he returned. "What kind of an architect do you think your husband would make?"

"Perfectly fine!" I answered enthusiastically. "You certainly have missed your vocation! I never saw a prettier or more comfortable house."

Jack beamed.

"Now for the kitchen!" he led the way.

I stood in the door of the kitchen and exclaimed with delight. It was the sunniest, daintiest kitchen imaginable. On one side stood the most beautiful stove (it a stove can be called beautiful) that I ever saw. I had seen many glass ranges, but none like this, with its glass doors, silver trimmings, white enamel pans, and I gave a little scream of delight.

"Pretty nifty for a stove, isn't it, Sue?" I thought you would like it," a pleased expression on his face.

Next we looked at the cellar and the heating apparatus.

"What long pipes!" I exclaimed. I had never seen such pipes. At home ours were short, and seemed to lead directly up from the furnace, but these extended the entire length of the house.

"Yes, they are long." An annoyed expression flitted across Jack's face. "The plumbers and I had quite a time over the pipe and radiator question. You remember, we planned the radiator so that they would be least conspicuous and where they would not interfere with the furniture?"

"Yes."

"Well, they wanted to change every single one. To put them in the most inconvenient places. Right where beds or other pieces of furniture belonged, and just spoiling the shape and effect of the rooms. But I put my foot down and they finally did as I told them to."

"But, Jack, didn't such a lot of pipe cost a good deal more?"

"Do let me attend to the cost of things connected with the house, Sue," he answered, a bit irritably.

"I SAID no more, but proceeded to admire the laundry which occupied the space in the rear of the cellar, with a door opening into the yard.

"Oh, how nice!" I said. "We won't have any steam from clothes in the kitchen, and they can be carried right into the laundry in the yard." Again I said, "Jack, you are a wonder!"

At my praise Jack regained his good nature, and we retraced our steps, stopping a moment to again admire the kitchen. The butler's pantry was most complete, with stationary refrigerator, etc. In fact, I thought the entire house simply perfect.

"I don't believe any architect ever built a house for less than $5000 that was so perfectly lovely, so complete in all its details as this is," I said as we again stood in the rear of the cellar.

"No, I don't either!" Jack answered dryly. "And this won't cost less than five thousand. I wish it would."

"How much will it cost, Jack?" And how much have we on deposit?" thinking of his credit.

"Oh, I don't know yet just how much it will cost. I have already paid the men thirty-five hundred. But it will be more than we planned. The men seem to think they can stick me for a lot of things. As for what we have on deposit, why, I believe we have about twenty-five hundred left."

and the Tango

THE first manifesto from a leader in the New York dramatic field announcing the coming campaign of theaters, sets forth as the aim to be overcome, not the moving picture show, but the tango. "Our distinctive work," it is quoted as saying, "will be to allure people from this craze. To that end we announce the plays of the coming winter will be more virile and exciting than those of last year."

The promise is pleasing, but not high. It will take no great uplift to get plays more virile and more exciting than the sex problem presentations of last winter.

It is gratifying, however, to have even this much of a promise, and if the campaign to that end be due to a desire to overcome the competition of the dance craze, we may have to revise past judgments of the tango and speak of it hereafter as a purifier of the stage and a public benefit. In fact, it may be an injustice to speak of it as a case at all.

Perhaps the ceaseless kick and wiggle was the only way in which the pleasure-loving world could effectively make known its protest against a theater given over to problems in phases of plays with sexuality substituted for sentiment and depravity masqueraded as morality.

Restores natural and youthful color and beauty to gray or faded hair. Positively removes dandruff—promotes a healthy growth—keeps hair soft and glossy. Is not a dye.

When One Is Not Well

One's appetite is most capricious—food almost distasteful, "licks" or "spits" at it, and is unable to swallow. Yet above all things nourishment is just what you need.

Bohemian Malt Tonic

never fails. It is not a thick, "sticky-tasting" extract, but a rich, delicious tonic with a malty flavor which is most appetizing; and a hop "tang" which stimulates appetite. Those who do not like extracts, on one hand—and those who do not care for the taste of beer, on the other, will like this malt tonic—while those who do like the taste of beer will like this even more.

Recommended for patients who suffer from "loss of appetite" food or ordinary tonic for weak digestion for food and energy in every kind of ailment and for the nervous system.

make its official nominations until Thursday, July 23, as required by regulations. Robert D. Wrenn, Gen. T. Adeo and Henry W. Slocum carefully watched the progress of the players during the past week on turf courts at Seabright, N. J., and despite the handicap of abominable weather conditions, which have completely discounted form, they have practically decided upon the four men named above.

Formidable as the Australian players appeared when they landed in the Aquitania, there is a bright chance in the defense of the cup on the court of the West Side Tennis Club in challenge matches on Aug. 12, 14 and 15.

With McLoughlin going in better form than he has hitherto shown, and Americans expect that he will be able to carry off both of his singles against Norman E. Brookes and Anthony Wilding, because the famous invaders are likely to have considerable Parke the Only Live One.

It was evident on the courts at Brighton that McLoughlin has perfect control of his defensive ground strokes, and is splendidly equipped on his backhand to turn any such attack. Wilding made in the challenge match a year ago.

In order for the Americans to successfully defend the trophy, it was that they also win the doubles. This is one of the reasons for including Karl Behr in the team. Behr has been going unusually strong in the doubles and also as a singles player. I would be interchangeable in case of accident to either McLoughlin or Williams, while he may prove a fast and surer man on the courts than Bundy, with some of the practice which the players will get before challenge matches has all of the spectacular stroke and, like McLoughlin, does the unexpected thing. Keyed up to the pitch, he might be counted on to out-volley Brookes, for Behr practically defeated Brookes seven years ago when the great Australasian was the height of his glory.

Hog Prices Higher.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Trade in hogs was slow today, but prices advanced. The advance resulted from the continued scarcity of receipts at Western points compared with a year ago. Good grades of cattle were strong, other weak. There was no urgent call for sheep or lambs.

Single lantern show by Clifford Gladson, 45424 W. 13th

Seven cousins, under the leadership of Edward Mann of 428 West Madison place, have banded themselves together in an organization as loyal as a Scottish clan and will take part in a carnival to be given on the lawn of Edward Mann's home next Thursday. The date originally was set for Friday, but now has been changed, and the new place for the carnival is at the home of the Manns. The program that will present the audience and score a big success for the benefit of the Pro-Dist-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund will have the following bachelors.

The Seven Cousins who thus will do good work for the little ones of the poor are Miss June Farrell of St. Louis; Miss Martha Becker of Joplin, Mo.; Miss Mary Ann of Chicago, Ill.; Misses Marie and

Arthur Valentine of St. Louis, and After Edward Mann himself.

From the several places named they will rally and march to the rendezvous appointed day as surely as did the faithful blood-knights of ancient Calypso, when Malise of the dun deer was speared throughout the Scottish highlands with his uplifted signal of the rising cross, and then and there they will raise their gay and battle-true old Death for the saving of the innocent toads.

In addition to the musical program already mentioned, refreshments will be laid and served by friends and relatives and it's a very good thing indeed that it is the first time that all the guests assembled for this helpful entertainment of the Seven saints' giving.

All honor to these boys and girls of unadorned blood.

They will be assisted by Miss Virginia Shearon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Shearon of Webster Groves, a gifted and popular reader, who will be heard in two interesting selections. The program in all is:
